

EXETASIS JOURNAL

BLIND REVIEW

Contributions submitted for publication to the journal Exetasis undergo an initial evaluation by the Editorial Board, which reserves the right to verify their consistency with the philosophical nature and scientific style of the journal. Contributions meeting these requirements will then be subjected to a double-blind peer review process based on standard criteria (relevance and significance of the topic, originality of interpretation, coherence of arguments, formal accuracy, etc.). In the event of acceptance pending revisions, authors will receive the respective review reports, which must be carefully followed during text revision. Review reports will be sent to authors in any case, whether the outcome is positive or negative, as well as in the case of a preliminary rejection by the Editorial Board.
